WILL ARRIVE HERE JULY 20 FOR VISIT

REV. FR. PATRICK AND FR. DAMIAN CUMMINS TO VISIT PARENTS

IN COLLEGE AT ROME

Sons of Patrick Cummins Have Been At Rome For 3 Years—Father Patrick Is Rector of College

The Rev. Father Patrick and the Rev. Father Damian Cummins, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cummins of near Burlington Junction, who have spent the last three years at St. Anselm's International College at Rome, are expected to sail from Cherbourg, France, on July 6 on the President Arthur of the American steamship line for a visit at home.

Enroute home from New York they will stop for visits with relatives at Brooklyn, Hartford and Pittsburgh, arriving here about July 20 or July 22.

The Rev. Father Patrick is the rector of the College at Rome and after spending his vacation here will return to Rome to resume his work.

The Rev. Father Damian was a student of Theology at St. Anselm's and was ordained to the priesthood at that place last July 9. He will take up work at Conception College at Conception after a visit with home folks.

Graham Man Enters Bay Mare in Fair Race

Sedalia, Mo., June 21—H. C. Taylor of Graham, Mo., has entered his bay mare, Priscilla Dean, in the 2:12 pacing event on the 1923 Speed Program of the Missouri State Fair, to be held at Sedalia, August 18 to 25. The Governor A. M. Hyde Stake of $3,000 is offered in this race.

This event is one of four which appear on the big stake, early closing harness schedule, closed May 22, of this year's fair. In two of these, the 2:14 trot and the 2:10 pace, purse of $3,000, the largest ever offered by the fair, are to be awarded. These are well seconded by two more big purses of $1,500 each, to be offered in the 2:10 trot and the 2:08 pace. Over fifty of the finest race horses in the Mississippi Valley—from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Colorado, Iowa, Minnesota, Tennessee and Ohio—are entered in these four big events.

The eight late closing harness races which close June 30, and the seventeen running races bring the total offerings to $16,800 and complete a speed program of twenty-nine events, the largest that the Missouri State Fair has ever had. Seventeen of these are running races, the greatest number that the fair has ever offered; and Saturday, August 25, for which a spectacular program entirely of running races is planned, has been set aside as Derby Day.

The mile race track on the Missouri State Fair Grounds, laid out in front of a big amphitheater of 15,000 seating capacity, is possibly the best in the Middle West; and it is in excellent quarters with a supply of the best of water. Already several horses are appearing on the track for a daily workout.

An Appreciation

Maryville, Mo., June 20, 1923.
Editor of The Democrat-Forum,
Maryville, Missouri.
Dear Sir:

The Maryville Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution wishes to express its appreciation of the many courtesies extended by The Democrat-Forum during the past year.

Sincerely yours,
Ella Walton Bellows, Sec.

What Christianity Means

Several days ago, the members of Masonic Lodge 196 at Quitman went to the home of J. A. Reed, one and a half miles west of there, to put up his hay crop while he was sick. They mowed and raked the crop of alfalfa hay and put it in his barn. This is practical Christianity.

Hopkins Baptists Call a Pastor.

Rev. J. S. Arvin, of Cuba, Mo., has been called as pastor of the Baptist church of Hopkins and will begin his work here in July. He is a man with a family and the parsonage is being fixed up in nice shape for them.—Hopkins Journal.

Stuart Lewis, Jr., Dies at Burlington Junct.

Stuart Lewis, Jr., the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Lewis of Burlington Junction, died about 2 o'clock this afternoon. Last Monday noon he swallowed a quantity of strong solution of lye water which he found on the window sill.

He is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Lewis and is a little past two years old. The little boy's throat was badly burned. Attending physicians have been unable to give much help to the child. Mr. Lewis is publisher of the Burlington Junction Post. No funeral arrangements have been made yet.

TEN DIE IN CHICAGO FIRE EARLY TODAY

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN PERISH WHEN HOUSE BURNS

FIFTEEN OTHERS INJURED

Conflagation Caused By Explosion of Moonshine Still—One Man Arrested

Chicago, June 21—Ten men, women and children were burned to death, several others are missing and are believed to have perished and fifteen others are injured as a result of leaping from the flaming windows of a building early today when a moonshine still exploded and set fire to a tenement house here.

Nine bodies were recovered shortly after the blast sent the district into horrifying hysteria. Frantic residents besieged the building in an effort to identify the bodies.

Most of the bodies identified are negroes. The tenement house also sheltered many whites. Screams and moans filled the air as the victims sought to flee from the burning building.

One man is under arrest and held for questioning as suspected of having manufactured moonshine whisky. He is Joseph Smith, a second hand furniture dealer with rooms on the first floor. The upper stories of the building is cut into twenty-four apartments. The explosion occurred in the basement.

Police and chauffeurs in the neighborhood performed heroic work in bringing persons from the burning building.

ALLEN EUSTACE TO MEET MARTINSON

IN WRESTLING MATCH IN MARYVILLE JULY 4

AUSPICES AMERICAN LEG.

Experts Regard Eustace As One of Greatest Mat Artists In Game—Weighs About 230

Allen Eustace, famous Kansas heavyweight wrestler, will meet Paul Martinson, Danish champion, in a finish match at Maryville July 4.

This announcement was made by E. W. Gray in a telegram received this afternoon. Grav and Dr. D. J. Thomas are in Kansas City making arrangements for the Fourth of July attraction here. They are trying to schedule some good middleweight to meet Mervin Barrackman, in addition to the heavyweight match already signed. The two bouts probably will be staged at the old fair grounds in the southeast part of Maryville.

Allen Eustace weighs about 230 pounds. He is regarded by experts as one of the best mat men in the game today. He is an independent wrestler, meeting any opponent in the heavyweight class. He has no manager as all matches are arranged through his individual efforts. Joe Stecher, one of the veterans of the wrestling game, asked $2000 to meet Ed (Strangler) Lewis, the present champion, or Allen Eustace. Stecher would meet any other wrestler for $2000.

Toots Moundt refused to meet Eustace without increasing the guarantee money $500. The Kansas wrestler has met John Pesek, Daviscourt, Zybysko, and a number of other top-notchers in the mat game. He is a contender for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Toots Mondt was scheduled several weeks ago to be one of those to participate in the mat game here July 4. When he discovered that Eustace was to be his opponent here, he cancelled his agreement and would not meet the Kansas wrestler, even at a larger guarantee than he had previously been offered.

The Fourth of July wrestling event in Maryville is being sponsored by the local American Legion post.

Half Minute Interviews

The question asked today was: "Shold Nodaway County have a community building at Maryville?"

Harvey L. Haines, dry goods merchant: "You know me about public improvements, I'm for it. Float bonds and let the public pay for it, that is the way it is done elsewhere. The most progressive places in the United States are heavily bonded and we can't be progressive unless we are. Before the war the city of New York's bonded indebtedness was greater than that of the United States."

The Rev. J. A. Cooper: "To my way of thinking there is no more urgent community need than for a community building in Maryville. A community building, properly conducted would be the solution of much of the problem of the leisure time of our people, which is causing community leaders so much concern.'

Mayor W. O. Garrett: "I am surprised that Maryville hasn't taken some action long ago for a community building of some sort. Other towns not as progressive or as able as Maryville has them and there is no reason we shouldn't. In order to get the right sort of a building, many organizations should work together to make it possible."

Sinclair Oil Co. Coming in Here

C. C. Bost of Kansas City was in Maryville today in interest of the Sinclair Oil and Refining Company, which intends to erect a tank station here and eventually have a filling station. Mr. Bost secured permission from the city to erect a tank station on the Wabash right-of-way between Fifth and Sixth streets. The matter of having a filling station here will probably be announced soon.

W. R. Linville Better.

W. R. Linville of Skidmore, who has been ill at his home in Skidmore for some time, is much improved.

Pall Bearers Named for Craig Funeral

S. G. Gillam, Charles Wadley, T. A. Cummins, Judge John M. Dawson, James Todd and Lee Carpenter will be pall bearers at the funeral of Judge Gallatin Craig to be held at the Baptist Church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A quartet composed of Emery Airy, Marie Cloud, Mabel Raines, and L. A. Richman will sing, "My Faith Looks Up To Thee," and Mr. Richman will sing, "No Night There." The services will be conducted by the Rev. J. A. Cooper, assisted by the Rev. S. P. Allison.

A sister, Miss Laura Craig of Ghent Ky., arirved in Maryville last night to attend the funeral. The body will lie in state at the residence from 9 o'clock until 1 o'clock tomorrow. Burial will be in Miriam cemetery.

HARDING IS READY FOR COURT BATTLE

WILL OPENLY DEFEND HIS PROPOSAL IN ST. LOUIS TONIGHT.

KANSAS CITY TOMORROW

Subject There Will Be Transportation Political Significance in in the Trip.

Aboard President Harding's Special, June 21.—With Washington and its worries behind him, and 15,000 miles of open road ahead of him, President Harding is prepared today to carry his internation court fight to the people.

Even with the opposition in the Senate, estimated by Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, to now aggregate nearly a third of the membership, the President will open his long speaking tour in St. Louis tonight with a vigorous re-affirmation of the international court and a determination to put America in it if possible.

The President deliberately chose the battle ground for the court issue in the territory that presented the most hostility to his proposal.

Missouri is the home of Senator James Reed, whose record of "irreconciability" to any form of European entanglements, was endorsed by the people of the state last year when they sent him back to the Senate. Governor Arthur Hyde has also expressed his disapproval to the international court plan.

The President will speak in St. Louis tonight and tomorrow night will speak in Kansas City upon the transportation problem.

Fear of Insanity Causes Suicide

Liberty, June 21.—Fear that she was going insane is believed to have impelled Miss Orian Johnson to commit suicde by jumping into the Missouri river several days ago, it was revealed here today.

A letter the young woman wrote before a taxicab took her to the river bank, is believed to make clear the mysterious disappearance and explains the motive for the alleged suicide.

The letter which was mailed to a friend whose name the authorities refused to reveal, intimated that Miss Johnson intended to end her life because of the fear that she was becoming mentally unbalanced. A recent attack of influenza had left her in a weakened condition and despondent, relatives say.

"It is not hard to take this death," she said, "because I fear I am getting cobwebs on my brain." The body has not yet been recovered. She was last seen by a taxi driver who took her to the river and returned an hour later according to her instructions. When he returned she had disappeared. Miss Johnson was formerly an art instructor at the University of Missouri and noted for her brilliant mind. She lived here with her aunt.

Try to Overthrow Hungarian Govt.

Budapest, June 21—Twelve students were arrested by the police during the past twenty-fours hour charged with plotting to overthrow the Hungarian government. It is reported that documents were disclosed today to show a conspiracy to attempt to set up an economic distatorship.

Mrs. Asa Ramey is a business visitor in Maryville today.

LABOR SHORTAGE CONFRONTS U. S.

LACK 600,000 MEN NOW SAYS EMPLOYMENT SERVICE.

PROSPERITY WILL STAY

Survey Says That Good Time Would Continue for at Least Another Year.

Washington, June 21.—A labor shortage of 600,000 men confronts American employers as a result of the steady improvement in industrial and agricultural conditions, it was learned today from a report of the United States employment service.

The unemployment crisis, which forced 5,735,000 men to "walk the streets" in 1921, has completely vanished and all the jobless are now back to work, it was announced in the special survey today.

Government officials declared that every able bodied man, able to work, can find employment at once. Likewise it predicted a continuation of prosperous times for at least another year.

Jones' Horses Win Many Races at Omaha

The Ben A. Jones horses which have been in the races at Omaha will be shipped to Chicago Saturday. The following in part is taken from the Omaha Daily News in regard to Mr. Jones and his horses which have been in the Omaha races:

B. A. Jones of Parnell started his racing career with a horse call Einstein. Einstein was eight years old and was famous in his community before the German scientist by the same name commenced to get the headlines away from Einstein, the runner.

Mr. Jones' first brood mare was Lemon Girl and His Lordship was his first stallion.

Other well known horses he has owned or still owns, are Blues, Harrigan, Waldo Seth, Opera Glass and Palroma.

He has sold several of his colt for $5,000 each and refused $15,000 for Billy Ross, a promising thoroughbred, which later died.

At the present time he has forty-five mares at his farm, twenty-five of which he owns.

He is associated with Nels Updike of Omaha in the stable now at Ak field.

Lorena Marcella, one of his horses, won the Queen's derby here.

His entry, Money, won the Queen's plate in 1922.

His Second Thoughts copped the Chamber of Commerce handicap Saturday.

Jones is known among race horse men as a heavy better and he usually wins.

He may just be lucky or again he may know what he's doing. Looks more like the latter.

Friends tell how Mr. Jones once had a goat for a pet, which followed him around his home town. He would whistle and his goat would run and jump up on him like a dog. A kick from a horse caused the goat's death and Mr. Jones felt so badly that he stayed away from his stables for a week.

Another hobby of this horseman is music. He even has a convertible phonograph which he carries with him to all race meets. Sometimes he sets it up in a stall; other times it occupies a place in his room at the hotel.

Improvement in Health Conditions in Elmo

The Nodaway County Health Department held the regular health conference at Elmo yesterday. Seventeen infants, pre-school and school children were examined.

About a year ago an examination was held at Elmo and yesterday some of these same children were examined. Dr. C. P. Fryer reports that great improvements have been made. Many of the defects of a year ago have been remedied and sub-normal children have now attained normalcy. A number of the children have gained in height and weight due to the corrections made. The next conference at Elmo will be on July 11.

The members of the health department are in Clearmont today.

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Hubbard were transacting business in Maryville today.

Radical Socialists Denounce Poincare

Withdraw Their Support From Him and Demand Resignations of Two Members of the Cabinet.

Paris, June 21.—Leaders of the radical faction of the French socialist party announced today that they have decided to withdraw support from Premier Poincare for political reasons. They characterized M. Poincare as too reactionary in internal politics.

After a party caucus the socialists served an ultimatum upon Minister of Colonies, Albert Sarraut, and Minister of Hygiene Strauss that they must resign immediately or forfeit membership in the Socialist party. Both ministers this afternoon informed the International News Service that they had decided to reject the demands and will remain in the cabinet.

DUELS SUPPLANT MEX. REVOLUTIONS

POLITICAL DIFFERENCES SETTLED PERSONALLY NOW.

TWO DUELS SCHEDULED

Former Holland Minister Challenges Cabinet Member and a Governor Will Fight Legislator.

San Antonio, June 21.—Revolutions are giving way to private duels in the settlement of the Mexican political controversies, according to information from "Little Mexico" here. It is learned that two duels will be fought in the near future on the outskirts of the Mexican capital and political circles are interested in the probable results.

Jose Maria Della Garza, former minister to Holland, has challenged Albert Pani, secretary of foreign relations in the Obregon cabinet, because of alleged failure to pay for certain services.

General Jesus Augustine Castro, governor of Durango, has also challenged Roque Gonsales, a member of the chamber of deputies, and president pro tem of the republic during the revolution.

This was brought on by a political disagreement, it is said.

Water Works Cause Less Protection Rates

An example of the benefits of water works is shown by a comparison of fire insurance rates in a small town in Nodaway County without water works protection and Maryville with protection.

A carpenter shop in a nearby town was insured for $500. The yearly payment on the policy is $13.70. A piece of property in Maryville was recently insured for $2000 with an annual payment of $15.20. The difference in rates is evidently caused by the water works protection.

Boy Is Lost Locked in a Freight Car

New York, June 21—Frantic efforts by the police of New York and a half dozen midwestern cities to find Stanley Farba of Brooklyn, proved futile today. The boy was locked in a freight car Monday. Shortly afterwards the car was "deadheaded" west by the railroad company.

Companions, who were with the boy did not recall the number of the car. It was on the Pennsylvania tracks and it is thought to have been consigned to Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City or Omaha. The child has been without food or water for four days.

M. K. Garrett Sells Residence

M. K. Garrett yesterday sold his residence at 511 West First Street to Floyd Pope. The consideration was $4,500. Mr. Garrett gives possession at once but will lease the property until September 1. At that time Dr. C. P. Fryer will rent the property. The deal was made by Hugh Strong.

Mrs. Hake Visiting Here

Mrs. Joseph Hake and little son, Robert of Northfield, Minn., have been guests of Mr. Hake for the past few days. Mr. Hake is an instructor in the college here. They are leaving here today for St. Joseph. Mr. Hake will accompany them that far. Then Mrs. Hake and Robert will go on to Moberly, Mo., for a visit with Mrs. Hake's parents.

MT. ETNA CONTINUES VIOLENT ERUPTIONS

CRATER INVISIBLE BECAUSE OF SMOKE AND ASHES.

WORST MAY BE OVER

All United in Caring for 100,000 Persons Left Homeless by Recent Disaster.

Catania, June 21.—Violent and continued eruptions, accompanied by subterrenanean rumblings shook the foot of Mt. Etna this afternoon. The crater was invisible because of the dense cloud of smoke and ashes.

Lava was still flowing from a half dozen fissures in the crater. The advance of the moulten stream, however, was slower.

Catana, Italy, June 21—Eruption of Mt. Etna continues today but the flow of lava was slower and hope was rising that the worst is past. The escape of gas and lava from the volcano is believed to have reduced the danger of an earthquake to the minimum.

Mt. Vesuvius is showing less danger of adjoining Mt. Etna in eruption. All ranks are united in caring for the 100,000 persons left homeless because of the eruption.

London, June 21—The eruption of Mt. Etna arising in all its former fury has dashed the hope that the volcano's force is spent, said a Central News dispatch from Rome at noon today.

Washington, June 21—The American Red Cross today offered its full services to the Italian government in aiding the people of the towns stricken by the volcano of Mt. Etna.

Mrs. B. K. Davis Dies in Philadelphia, Pa.

Word has been received in Maryville today by relatives of the death of Mrs. B. K. Davis of Philadelphia, a former resident of Maryville. Mrs Davis died at 11 o'clock this morning. No arrangements have been made for the funeral and it is not known whether the body will be brought here for burial. Her husband, who has been dead for years, is buried at Oak Hill cemetery here. Mrs. Davis is an aunt of Mrs. J. F. Colby and Joe Jackson here. She is also survived by a sister, Mrs. T. D. Hosmer of Colorado Springs and two sons, Fred P. Davis, United States marshall at Sioux City, Iowa, and B. K. Davis of Philadelphia, with whom she lived. She visited in Maryville about three years ago.

Mr. Davis was a brother of George Davis of Maryville and was a prominent man in county and political circles.

Leland Stewart, 11 yrs. Old, Dies at Elmo

Leland Stewart, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Judge George Stewart of Elmo died at one o'clock this afternoon. Last Monday Leland was kicked in the stomach by a horse and suffered internal injuries. His condition has gradually become worse during the past three days. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs Stewart and three brothers, Arthur, Johnny, and Charley and two sisters, Katie and Edna, who were all there at the time of his death. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Must Have Capital for Stock Dealings

Washington, June 21.—Legislation to prohibit dealing in stocks, bonds and agricultural products by companies without adequate financial backing will be introduced in the next Congress, it was announced this afternoon by Senator of South Carolina.

Mrs. Young Leaves.

Mrs. Tom Young of Sheridan, Wyo., who has been visiting her father, Spence Linville, and her sisters, Mrs. George Knepper and Mrs. Willard Money has returned to her home.

Mrs. Jim Strickler and daughter, Leatha of Skidmore were shopping in St. Joe yesterday.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Friday with probably local thunderstorms; continued warm.

Community Building

MADE "CHILDREN'S HIGHWAY"

Splendid Project by Which Illinois County Added Greatly to Its General Attractiveness.

Thirty-five miles of "Children's highway" planted by its thousands of school children is the tremendous task for which Kane county, Illinois, is rallying its entire citizenry.

In towns along the state road from Aurora to Algonquin, chambers of commerce, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, women's clubs, schools, societies, churches, lodges—all available agencies are organizing themselves for one great collective effort: the beautifying of the Fox river valley with the planting this spring of a tree, a shrub or a flower for every man and woman, boy and girl in Kane county.

The planting of the Fox River trail is one of the major plans of the Plan to Plant Another Tree club of Kane county which has been formed this spring. Each child or group of children planting a tree or shrub along the highway will be given the responsibility of its care, under adult leadership, until growth is assured.

Several hundred organizations of the cities and towns of the county—Aurora, Elgin, Algonquin, Dundee, Geneva, St. Charles, Batavia and Carpentersville—are joining in the great task. A prominent Chicago landscape architect is mapping out a plan for the planting. A fund of $20,000 is being raised by popular subscription to finance the effort and enthusiasm is at high heat all over the county.

On one day during Tree Planting week there will be held a great community day of planting, with a special program and representatives of the press and film companies there to spread the gospel that Kane county, Illinois, was the first to take steps in beautifying America in this manner. —Chicago Evening Post.

PAYS TO KEEP TOWN CLEAN

Neatliness and Orderliness of Community Is of Immense Value to Every Citizen.

There is no sentiment in the human heart stronger than the love of home; closely associated with it is love of our home town, or city, and our country.

There is not a man, woman or child that does not, down deep in his heart, have this love of home.

This love of home should be fostered and encouraged in everybody, especially in the children, as it will do much to increase their love of country and respect for its institutions and those in authority.

How can we do this in any better way than by improving our homes and making them cleaner and more attractive inside and outside, thus engendering in ourselves and our children a greater pride in our home and a greater love for it?

Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaigns are designed to make beautiful towns and cities by starting first with the unit, the home. Its purpose is to educate the careless and indifferent ones to show their love for their homes by making same as attractive as possible. Beautiful homes make beautiful towns, but of course all must do their part, else the effect, as a whole, is marred and rendered of little avail.

Oregon Town Has Good Idea.

With the co-operation of the newspapers of the city, a practical turn is given to the English composition work in the Astoria (Ore.) High school. The English classes are divided into two newspaper staffs which alternate in preparing a whole page of school news for the Friday issues of the local dailies. The arrangement is held to serve several distinct purposes. It teaches the pupils newspaper usages and to write succinctly and accurately. It gives them an opportunity to see their own work in print. Last, but by no means least in importance, it keeps the citizens of the city supplied with real news of the work of their high school. As a result of the successful operation of the plan, there is no longer need for the student newspaper usually published in high schools and colleges.

Garden Pottery.

Garden pottery may be used delightfully and appropriately as incidental decoration. In their very lack of obtrusion lies very often their chief charm. For instance, the pair of terra cotta urns set on the ramp of the garden steps, at the gateway, or on either side of the entrance to an arbor, being of secondary importance to the steps, the gateway or the arbor, are most fitting when theirs is a sort of half-hidden loveliness.

Encouraging Community Work.

The Trenton Times of Trenton, N. J., will award annually a $500 "civic loving cup" to the citizen who has performed the most unselfish service for the community.

Cleveland's Good Record.

Cleveland, Ohio, completes the year with a cash surplus, a contrast to the usual deficit.

One Live Man Can Save Town.

No town is dead if there is one live man in it who is live enough.

The Scrap Book

LUCK WAS WITH SMALL BOY

Youngster Landed Veteran Trout Where Experienced Fishermen Had Met With Dire Failure.

Some queer elements of chance enter into the question of fishing. In the long run the cleverest and best equipped fisherman will no doubt fare best, but the latest and most expensive tackle may once in a while be beaten by some most primitive contrivance, if the latter happens to be at the right place in exactly the right moment.

A famous one-eyed trout met with a most sudden fate after, by fair means and foul, he had been fished for from his youth until his old age, when he had attained the weight of seven pounds and was grisly about the head and shoulders, which is equal in his relation to life to being "gray-headed."

Veteran fishermen, who had struggled with mighty salmon in the Northwest, accomplished fly-fishers who could fool the timid trout when their comrades never "moved a fish," acknowledged that this old chap was too cunning for them. Young men, reckless of expense, wrote to the city for costly tackle with which to land the old fellow. Some men tried to take advantage of the old trout's physical infirmities and endeavored to get him on his blind side.

One day a cry was heard. Workmen dropped their tools and hurried to the bridge over the stream wherein the old trout was accustomed to disport himself. Excited people were met, hastening to the town. A small boy, with a couple of yards of coarse twine, a great rusty hook, a beam stick and a piece of beef, had approached the popular idol in the one unguarded moment of a long and honorable life and with a fiendish whoop had hauled him to the bank.

HIS ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Mr. Pibber—You admit you never knew me to lie to you. Doesn't that prove that I always speak the truth?

His Wife—It proves nothing of the kind. It merely shows what a good liar you are.

Family Peculiarly Marked.

There is a family called Catlin in the United States which is distinguished by having skulls with holes in the back, so that they look as if the owners must have had eyes in the back of their heads, gravely declares a scientific magazine. That this extraordinary trait is hereditary is proved by the Catlin family tree. The holes are in the parietal bones and apparently serve no useful purpose. They have no influence on the mentality of their possessors and cause only slight inconvenience, although babies born with "the Catlin mark" are more liable than normal infants to injury at birth.

Hen's Peculiar "Family."

A farmer in Saskatchewan has a hen that had its hip broken when stepped on by an ox. The leg was set and healed. Soon after, the farmer's dog had a litter of pups, but neglected them. The old hen adopted the pups and they prospered. When the pups grew they became rough with their foster mother, but, though they playfully knocked her around, she didn't seem to mind. Even after the pups were as big as the hen she attempted to get them under her wings at night.

Mice Had Planted Oats.

An Alberta (Canada) farmer, after finishing threshing last fall, placed an empty bucket on a rafter in his oat bin. Some months later he went to the bin for the bucket and found that it was full of ripe, plump, white oats. He claims that not a black or green oat was in the bucket, and that a lot of mice had evidently been laying up a supply.

Dog Hoarded Golf Balls.

Balls having been missed constantly near one of the greens of the Ealing (Eng.) golf course, watch was kept, and a fox terrier was seen running off with one. He was followed, and a pile of balls was found hidden behind his kennel.

Surely His Lucky Day.

An electrician who was inspecting one of the towers of Notre Dame cathedral in Paris, fell to the street from a height of 70 feet. By extraordinary luck he was not seriously injured, and the doctors expect he will be about in a day or so.

London Traffic Statistics.

London omnibuses and underground railways last year carried the record number of 1,172,000,000 passengers, 72,000,000 more than were carried in 1921. The distance covered by omnibuses and railways was 163,000,000 miles, an increase of 7,500,000 miles over the mileage of 1921.

The County Agent's Column

Baby Beeves Are a Pretty Sight

The County Agent spent the day yesterday visiting the boys and girls around Parnell, Gaynor, Sheridan and Hopkins, who are feeding calves for the Baby Beef show. The calves were all doing well, some of them making especially rapid gains and are already in as good condition as were many of those at the end of the contest last fall. The northeast corner of the county has some of the most enthusiastic members of the baby beef club. Marshall and John Kennedy, Jr, Donald Morton, Densil Cooper and Max and Lila Wray are feeding Shorthorns; Ralph Hilton, Harley and Loren Garrard, Orval Renfro and Floyd Nicola are feeding Herefords, while Don Turner, south of Hopkins has a fine Angus heifer.

As pretty a sight as one would care to see are the two Shorthorn steers being fed by Max and Lila Wray. There are larger calves in the club and others that are just as fat, but here are two beautiful roan calves as near alike as two peas in a pod and showing the quality and style that is always a delight to a lover of good cattle.

Densil Cooper, son of Guy Cooper, west of Sheridan has the largest calf among any that are being fed by club members. His calf is a red Shorthorn, dropped March 2, 1922. On April 1st this year he weighed 1040 pounds. During April the calf gained 60 pounds and in May nearly 80 pounds, weighing 1180 pounds on June 6th.

Two boys in the Hopkins club have found it necessary to drop out of the contest which will leave just five contestants for the Baby Beef Club premiums at the Hopkins fair this fall. These five will be Max and Lila Wray Shorthorns, Floyd Nicola and Orval Renfro, Herefords, and Don Turner with an Angus calf.

Homer Croy went along to see the country and chat with boyhood friends. Maybe a club boy will be the hero of his next novel.

Use Ballons In Fight On Pests

As a result of experiments carried on during the past two years in spraying trees with poison distributed by an air plane in the campaign to control insect pests, the department has considered it advisable to make a number of tests this summer to determine whether the lighter-than-air machine can be used satisfactorily. Arrangements have been made between the department and the Air Service of the War Department to use a motorized ballon for this purpose. The work will be conducted in the gipsy moth area in New England, where an attempt will be made to devise equipment that can be attached to the balloon so that a poison spray can be effectively applied in forest areas.

Farm Market Conferences

The Missouri Farm Bureau Federation announces that Walton Peteet, director of the co-operative marketing department of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will spend more than a week in Missouri in district conferences, following the state-wide meeting with the state executive committee and others on July 7th at Jefferson City.

No final schedule has been announced as to the places of meeting through the state, but among others plans are being made for Sedalia, Chillicothe and Monroe City.

V. F. W.'s Sponsor Showing "Skin Deep"

Through the efforts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the well-known Thomas H. Ince production, "Skin Deep," will be presented at the Empire Theater next Monday and Tuesday, June 25 and 26. The cast includes Milton Sills, Florence Vidor, Marcia Manon, Charles Clary, Winter Hill, Joe Singleton, Gertrude Astor and Muriel Francis Dana. The following is a brief synopsis of the plot:

The man: (Milton Sills as "Bud Doyle"). Well, he was as cool and clever a crook as you could find in any big city. You will see him at the battle front with a gun in each hand, a cigarette in his mouth and all three smoking. After the war he returns to his life in the underworld and the story begins.

The woman: (Marcia Manon as "Sadie Doyle"). His wife—also a member of the gang of crooks. A wily jade, self-centered, conceited, conceited, with a sneer in her smile and a devil lurking in her eye.

The girl: (Florence Vidor as "Ethel Carter"). Wholesome, sweet, charming volunteer nurse whose voice is soft and kindly and whose smile brought strange thoughts to the injured man who does not see for many weeks, but hears only the voice.

How the loves, jealousies, double-dealing betrayal, inspiration and encouragement of this strange quartet played and counter-played on one another, forms the theme of the Thomas H. Ince picture, "Skin Deep."

The sinister guide: (Frank Campeau as "McQuary"). Suave, merciless, resourceful gangster and political bass, whose fawning smile hoodwinked the reform forces of a great city and whose whispered word held the denizens of the underworld in the power of fear.

In addition to this picture a late film of Charley Chaplin entitled, "The Idle Class," will be shown. There will be matinee at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon for the children.

Maitland Fair to Be Last of July

Twenty-fifth Annual Fair To Be July 24, 25, 26, and 27—Many Features Are Planned

The dates for the Maitland fair this year will be July 24, 25, 26 and 27. This is the earliest date that the fair has ever been held here in twenty-five years, the reason for it being an arrangement of the north Missouri and southern Iowa circuit which makes it impossible to ship racing stock from one fair to another, making what is called "a short-ship circuit."

The Maitland fair is one of the oldest in northwest Missouri, the Nodaway Valley Agricultural association having been organized twenty-five years ago. During the first few years of the organization the fairs were conducted on the old lines, big stock displays and horse racing. There were also fine displays of all kinds of farm crops, fruits, etc., while local merchants always had displays of machinery as well as the various lines of agricultural implements and the furniture and fixtures for the home. The usual traveling side shows and exhibitions naturally arrived on time and helped to make "the fair that made Maitland famous."

During all these years the fair has been an annual event and thousands attend. The fair frequently allots one day to the other towns of the county, and in some years have advertised a St. Joseph day and ran excursions.

Today the association keeps the best of the old-time program and in addition has war airplanes, fire works and usually a carnival company, as well as good racing events.

As usual, Lum Patterson's band will furnish the music this year. P. L. Bohart is president of the association and G. Fred DeBord is secretary.

The new drainage plan of the Nodaway river brings that stream alongside the fair grounds. The city water mains also reach the grounds and this insures ample water supply.

Montgomery-Roseberry Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Huston, 2729 Penn street, St. Joseph, was the scene of an interesting wedding at high noon today, when Miss Eva May Montgomery, sister of Mrs. Huston, became the bride of Mr. Glenn Beal Roseberry of Maryville. Dr. C. M. Chilton, pastor of the First Christian Church, read the services in the presence of sixty guests who were limited to the immediate relatives of the bridal couple and associate teachers of the bride in the Garfield school. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Sarah K. White, supervisor of music in the St. Joseph schools, sang "At Dawning" (Cadman) and "When Song Is Sweet" (Sans Souci), and during the service she played "Annie Laurie." The bride was becomingly attired in white georgette, trimmed in Valenciennes lace, and her bouquet was of Annie Laurie roses. Pink roses and ferns were used throughout the rooms and a color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the luncheon which followed the ceremony. Mr. Roseberry and his bride will arrive in Maryville this evening and will be at home to their friends at 229 East Seventh street. They will leave early in August on a motor trip to points in Colorado where they will spend several weeks.

The Maryville guest list included Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Frank and daughter, Eva Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bellows and daughter, Emma Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hosmer and daughter, Miss Margaret Louise Hosmer, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Montgomery and little daughter, Dorothy Lee, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Shinabargar and daughter, Miss Mildred Shinabargar, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kurtz, Mrs. Laura Beal, Misses Allie and Bertha Beal, Miss Gertrude Condon, Miss Mary Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Allison Espey, Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Bolin, Miss Ida Shinabargar, W. A. Shinabargar, and Esther and Laura Phoebe Roseberry, daughters of the bridegroom. Miss Lucile Craig, Misses Mayme and Anna Dooley, Miss Naomi Brown and Miss Della Nash, teachers in the St. Joseph schools who are attending the summer semester of the State Teachers College here, also attended the wedding.

The bride has been principal of the Garfield school, corner of 19th and Jule streets, for several years with eleven instructors under her supervision. She was reared near Maryville and for a number of years taught in the public schools here. Mr. Roseberry is active in the county organization of the Red Cross and is president of the Nodaway County Sunday School Association. Both bride and bridgroom have a wide circle of friends in Maryville.

HOUSEWORK IS A BURDEN.

Woman's lot is a weary one at best. But with backache and other distressing kidney ills life indeed becomes a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life brighter for many Maryville women. Ask your neighbor.

Mrs. M. Bratcher, 1322 E. 2nd St., Maryville, says: "While recovering from a bad cold a terrible dull ache settled in the small of my back and bothered me constantly. As the days went by my back grew lame and sore and these pains darted around to my hips. I suffered severely and could hardly do my housework. I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills which I had heard so much about. I purchased a supply at Gaugh & Evans Drug Store. The first box produced such good results I continued using them and after I had used three boxes of Doan's the pains left and I was completely cured. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone afflicted with a similar trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Bratcher had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

LUELLA TALKS

By MOLLIE MATHER

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

MRS. DEMMING, lately returned to her old home town, settled herself down in Luella's sunny living room for an hour of gossip.

Luella, even in the days of her youth had been a cheery and interesting dispenser of town news.

"And what," Mrs. Demming continued the conversation, "became of that demurely pretty young relative of yours, who left Brampton when I was last here, because of her disappointment in David's not asking her to marry him? Sort of mysterious, she seemed to me, I must confess, Luella. Such a silent little creature, with blue eyes—can't recall her name, but I never did forget her face, or the fact of David's falling in love with her, and then settling back into his shell, without finishing his courtship. And where is David now?"

Miss Luella smiled; but a quick frown followed her smile. "Nancy Holden's life was almost ruined by the jealousy of two men who loved her," she said. "And as you are one of those who used to go about wondering regarding the mystery of Nancy, I'll be glad to tell you her story. She came to me that summer as lonely and small a creature as could be. She was so sweet and grateful and lovable, that I was real glad when David, for the first time in his life, appeared to be interested, and helped to make her stay pleasant. You remember, Lydia, how he began right away to take Nancy driving and walking, and would sit listening for hours while she played on my old piano?

"'Please,' the girl said when she came, 'don't talk about my past life, Luella dear, if you can help it; to talk about it now brings the ache to my heart.' So, because I said nothing so's other folks wouldn't fall into the way of discussing things before her, they speculated over a possible mystery. I had no idea of deceiving David though, when I kept speaking of Nan in the careless way we have here—with our dialect—as Mis' Holden. You know, Lydia, to this day you are Mis' Demming to the townsfolk. So David took it that Nan was unmarried, and then he learned later that she was a widow

"After Mrs. Spaulding met David and asked cattily if Nan had not told him that she was widowed he came in stunned and surprised and bitter; and went away again quickly, after Nan's perplexed acknowledgment. She, too, poor girl, had thought of course David knew. So it was then that she went back to her empty home, as you recall, desolate and grieved to the heart by David's unreasoning jealousy—for it was just that. But by and by he couldn't bear the lonesomeness for her—for David's love was true love, you know—so he gave up his ideal and went to beg Nan to take him, humbly.

"When David came back for my sympathy I was as out of patience with that girl and almost as disappointed as himself. For Nan had refused to marry David, and why?—because she'd been reading over some old letters of her husband—kind of sorting out those to destroy, and she had come across one to herself, written one time when he was away, and saying that he hoped she'd never marry again—if he died—adding that she 'owed it to him' not to do so. And when she told David tearfully, that she did owe it to my departed cousin to obey his wish, David came away pretty prompt. I couldn't think how Nan could be so foolish, and I knew, though we had never admitted the fact between us, that she had not married her husband for love.

"One could not blame Nan, for she did not know love in its true sense. In her youth she simply married the man of her father's choosing, just as she had obeyed him in everything else. He had asked this happiness of her during the last days of his illness. 'I would know the relief of your assured future, before I must leave you,' her father had said. My cousin Timothy was much older than his bride and understood the dutiful manner of her affection for him. Yet, jealously, he exacted all her attention.

"While on a business trip Timothy died of heart trouble, and I fancy that unconsciously she must have been relieved, in her freedom. So, poor David had no cause for jealousy of Nan's past. Bewildered she had sought me out—her only relative, and sadly had I muddled her affairs. But because it has ever been my lot to make clear the way for true love—which I, myself, have not known—I set about that night of David's call trying to explain to him how Nan, with her conscience, believed this debt of allegiance due her departed husband, because she had defrauded him in love, 'You owe me this,' he had written.

"In a sort of inspiration I went to my old desk and drew from a drawer the few letters my cousin Timothy had written to me. And there was the one, written the very night before his death—'and if it is true, as the doctor says, that my heart is likely to give out any moment, you, my dear Luella, will, I am sure, be kind to my dutiful little wife, and will shelter her, if she so desires, until such time as some worthy man may come to claim her as a wife. For I have no wish that my dear one should live on in loneliness, or forfeit love, because of my memory.'

"Timothy's last, wiser wish, you see. With this missive I sent David back to Nan. That they are happy in their married life you shall see, Lydia, when I take you over to call at their nice home."

Fired.

The head of a large shop, while passing through the packing-room, observed a boy lounging against a case of goods and whistling cheerily. The chief stopped and looked at him. "How much do you get a week?" he demanded. "Five dollars," came the brief retort. "Then here's a week's money, now clear out." The boy pocketed the money and departed. "How long has he been in our employ?" the chief inquired of the departmental manager. "Never, so far as I can remember," was the unexpected reply. "He has just brought me a note from another firm."—Chicago News.

Yesterday's 92 Was Hottest This Year

Mercury a Little Lower Today—Three Deaths in Philadelphia From Heat—Relief Promised.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year. The mercury mounted to 92 degrees at noon yesterday. The thermometer registers a little cooler today, the noon registration showing 87 degrees.

Philadelphia, June 21—Three men are dead here from the heat. The thermometer was steadily climbing this morning and is expected to pass yesterday's 96, the hottest June day in years.

Washington, June 21—Relief from the intense heat over most of the country east of Mississippi was promised this evening by the United States weather bureau. The forecast said that cool winds, originating north of the Great Lakes would bring the thermometer down during the afternoon, while local showers were promised in some parts of the Northwest.

First American School for Women.

The first school for women on the American continent was begun by the Ursuline nuns of Quebec in 1639. The first white native American accessions to their ranks came to them from New England and through Indian agencies.

In 1686 a war party of Maine Abenaki Indians raided the village of Salem, Mass., and, after killing her parents and burning her home, carried into captivity six-year-old Mary Ann Davis, who was adopted by the sachem of the tribe and cared for with his own children. She grew up in Indian ways and customs until she was rescued in her seventeenth year by the Jesuit missionary, Father Rasle, who had her sent as a pupil to the Ursuline convent at Quebec. Here she became a nun herself in 1698, the first woman born within the limits of the United States to become a religious.

The Point That Counted.

Pat was a good husband and a good father and had taken care of his family—at times. He was well liked in his neighborhood, but occasionally he would go on a spree while his family got along as best they could.

When he died suddenly the neighbors were shocked and a kindly woman, chatting over the fence with Pat's wife, proceeded to comfort her by describing Pat's good points.

"He was such a man of principle," said the neighbor.

"And am I not the one to know it?" replied the bereaved woman. "Sure, and every Saturday night didn't he come home and place his pay envelope in front of me as regular as clockwork? Not a night did he miss all the time we were married. Of course, the pay envelope was always empty, but look at the principle of the thing!"—Chicago Daily News.

Where to Go?

LONE VALLEY AND VICINITY

The poet sings, "Oh what is so rare as a day in June, then if ever, comes perfect days," and while we haven't had so very many of those kind of days yet this June Sunday, the 17th was certainly one of them and that it was appreciated was shown by the large number of people, many from a distance, who attended the 23rd annual basket meeting at Workman Chapel. Through a misunderstanding of dates Dr. Curl was unable to be present and Dr. Fred Kellar of the S. T. C. was sent instead. He preached a splendid sermon on "Does a man die in vain?" He began his talk by telling how well he felt acquainted with this community, having lived two years by Uncle Billy Workman in Maryville, and how he spent hours helping Uncle Billy hive bees or sitting with him evenings listening to him talk of the long years of his life spent out here on the farm. The College Springs, Iowa, male quartet gave several selections and Mrs. Dow of College Springs also sang a beautiful song. After the dinner and social hour, a musical program of a solo by Mrs. Dow and duets by Miss Wagner and another young lady from Maryville, Rev. and Mrs. Snodgrass, Misses Audrey and Irene Boyer of Burlington Junction, Misses Pauling and Ierne Koger and a selection by the Hoffman family from Forescue, Mo., assisted Mrs. Nellie Cooper and a number of selections by the Pickering high school quartet and the College Springs quartet and an address by Rev. Snodgrass of Maryville. That the program was interesting was shown by the attention given it by old and young alike. Those who had the affair in charge certainly appreciate the efforts made by all to make the day a success.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner announce the birth of a son whom they have named Sebastian Avon.

Mrs. Ethel Griffith and Lester and Roina Piveral took dinner at Heman Sears Sunday.

Jack Davis and family spent Sunday at College Springs, Iowa.

Everett Carmichael and family spent Sunday at Ave Carmichael's.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith and Mr. and Mrs. Sears called at John Wagner's Sunday evening.

Tom Bailey and family of Tarkio spent Sunday at Harry Zook's.

Those who have planted large crops of corn were getting rather discouraged at the continued rains, but a week or two of the kind of weather we are having the first of this week will give a chance to get most of the ground worked over. It is generally thought that a dry June is needed for good corn and wheat crops, but perhaps we have not had enough rain yet to spoil either one. We should certainly be thankful we have not had the floods that other parts of the country have had.

Mrs. Hattie Hogue and Miss Myrtle Hogue visited Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carmichael Sunday and attended the basket meeting.

Pearl Adkins, of Elmo spent part of last week with his sisters, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Dredge.

This is a great white clover year and the bees are busy gathering in the honey.

Mrs. Mary Wagner spent Monday and Tuesday at John Wagner's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hartness and Mary Margaret of Maryville attended the basket meeting and spent the evening at Sam Bays's.

We have just learned that John E. Williams, who was raised in this neighborhood and for several years was mail carrier on this route, passed away this afternoon at the home of his father-in-law, W. T. Rutherford in Pickering. His mother passed away at his home in March at the age of 85 years.

Hopkins Farmer Thinks Hogs Be 10c

(Hopkins Journal.)

Ira Gray, farmer and feeder, and J. C. Pistole, farmer and banker, do not always see alike, having up a wager that cannot be decided before the summer is over—Ira betting his money that hogs will be 10c a pound in St. Joe before fall sets in and "Jim" wagering they will not get that high, the stakes, however, not being big enough to endanger either of them being "churched."

And while we think of it, Ira has another pet idea worth thinking about. He declares that forty acres of good grass, the kind we have this year, is worth in feeding quality, 2,000 bushels of corn or in other words, the forty acres will put on as much fat on cattle as 2,000 bushels of corn, but recommends that corn be fed with the grass. He thinks too many farmers are not familiar with the real value of grass. According to his theory, forty acres of good pasture this year is worth about $1600 and some forties that we know of have been rented for just one-tenth this amount already this season. Here's a good subject for some farm debating club.

SIGN USED FOR CENTURIES

Probably the Three Golden Balls Is the Oldest Symbol Known to Civilized World.

In the days when only a few people could read, emblems and pictures were used instead of letters for advertisement. One of the best known street signs surviving from those days is the pawnbroker's sign: three golden balls. One story of its origin is the legend of St. Nicholas and three doweries he gave the daughter of a pauperized nobleman in Asia Minor. Why St. Nicholas, or as we love to call him, Santa Claus, should be connected with pawnbroking, the story does not relate. Another theory is that the three gold balls originated as a coat of arms of three gold coins, meaning "money to lend," and that balls were found an easier sign to make than coins. This coat of arms was used by the Lombard merchants in London, the moneylending class of the days of the Black Prince, whose father, Edward III, once pledged his crown with them to get money for the French wars. Lombard street, London, Eng., is named after these gentlemen who used to live there. The Lombards were the virile north Italians, of Teutonic stock like the English. Pawnbroking is one of the oldest businesses in the world.

HEAR FOOTSTEPS OF SPIDER

Microphone Able to Detect Sounds Which Would Seem to Be Absolutely Inaudible.

Two scientists have been listening to the tramp of a spider.

By means of the ordinary carbon microphone very faint sounds can be detected, and long ago, David Edward Hughes, one of the pioneers of wireless and the inventor of the microphone we now use on our telephones, was able to hear on his microphone the tramp of a fly.

There are some wonderful crystals which, when subjected to intermittent pressure, give rise to electric currents and give forth sounds, and they, too, can be used to magnify inaudible noises. Crystals of quartz, tourmalin, feldspar, sugar, camphor, and so on, have these remarkable properties; but the crystals most responsive to pressure are the crystals of rochelle salt which are found in seidlitz powders.

By means of these rochelle salt crystals two electricians, Mrs. Russell and Mr. Cotton, have lately been able to hear a small spider walking about. They do not describe the sound of the spider's footfall; but we should imagine that it would be more of a shuffle than a fox-trot. Certainly not a two-step!—Montreal Family Herald.

Words Wrongly Used.

The following are some words that are often wrongly used: "decided," for instance means "strong"; "decisive" means "final"; a decided opinion is quite different from a decisive opinion. "Each other" should never be used for "one another"; "guess" is loosely used for "suppose," "expect" or "intend," but such use is avoided by the best writers; "party" should never be used for "person"; "further" means additional," "farther" refers to distance; "propose," meaning "to offer," should not be confused with "purpose," meaning "to intend"; "discover" is to find something which previously existed; "invent" is to produce something for the first time; "locate" is a vulgarism, when used for "settle"; "perception" means the inlet of all the materials of knowledge; "apperception" means the knowledge that one possesses these materials; a man with perception knows, a man with apperception knows that he knows.

Another "Porterhouse" Story.

One of the most popular and widely-known eating houses in southern Ireland at the time the corn laws and tithes in Ireland ran out along about 1836, was the "Two Pot House" in Cork. That meant that one could get potatoes and bread and butter and two pots of porter, together with getting one's steak cooked, for one shilling (or 25 cents).

The custom was for the wayfarer to Cork to buy a steak at some place en route and bring it with him to the "Two Pot House." Thus after a time it became the designation for the meal of porter and steak, and subsequently a porterhouse steak—meaning a steak of one's own at the porter house.

Thus, goes one of the numerous stories of its origin, came the term "porterhouse steak."

Caterpillars' Eyes in Odd Place.

Caterpillars with eyes on their abdomens, and male insects growing female wings, have been raised by Stefan Kopec of the government institute for agricultural research at Pulawy, Poland. He had removed the simple eyes and their surrounding tissue from the heads of caterpillars and grafted them on the abdomens of these insects. The germs of these mature eyes developed normally, notwithstanding the absence of any junction with the nervous chain.

He performed a similar operation and exchanged the wings of the male and female caterpillar moths. These wings continued to develop, but retained the color and characteristics of the sex from which they had been taken, instead of showing the hue of the specimens on which they developed.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

QUEER AUNT JANE

By JANE GORDON

(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

MARGOT and Janey were half-sisters, and old. Aunt Jane, who was very rich, was undecided, apparently, which one to make her heir.

Margot and Janey had been brought up in modest circumstances, so Miss Jane Bruce told her friends.

"My good brother," she would say, "was never a money-maker. Indeed, it could not be said that he possessed an unusual amount of gray matter. What the women saw in him was to me a puzzle. But both Margot's mother and Janey's pretty, frivolous one adored Donald Bruce. I haven't seen much of my nieces since their father died; less before that. Donald and I could never agree. Margot's mother was too decided in her opinions, and I didn't care to become sponsor for my brother's second wife. Now I desire to become acquainted with my only kin. So I've invited the girls to Bruce Place for one year. I don't care to leave the family money ignorantly."

Margot, when the surprising letter came, looked into Janey's laughing dark eyes. "If she were not father's own sister I'd like to refuse this tardy invitation," Margot said. "I suppose we must not let the money go to strangers."

"Oh, forget her neglectful past," Janey advised, "and let us for once have a good time, Margot. I'd love to know what it feels like to live in a big house, with parks around it, and have pretty dresses to wear to formal dinners. I"—she smiled back at her sister wickedly—"mean to win aunt's hardened heart."

"You will do it, Janey," her sister said, admiringly. "You win hearts naturally."

John Letchworth, her aunt's attorney in the city, came often to consult with Margot about the visit. There were many commissions which Aunt Jane had asked him to require of her. And here began the great event of Margot's self-sacrificing life. She loved John Letchworth. And Margot's pride lay in her own modest assurance that John Letchworth, in his fine, successful manhood, could not possibly care for an ordinary small person like herself. Was he not constantly in the companionship of women altogether charming, in his own sphere? And then there was Janey, winsome Janey, with her world confidence to conquer. The younger sister and the pleasing young attorney quickly became laughing, bantering friends.

As Aunt Jane weakened under the incurable malady of old age the elder niece would look up to discover the invalid's eyes regarding her speculatively. Then Margot's troubles seemed all to come at once. Such strange, inexplicable troubles! Abruptly, John Letchworth withdrew the solace of his companionship, almost it seemed, the solace of his friendship.

One day her aunt told Margot, with a queer, grim smile, that she had made her will. "John Letchworth drew it for me," she said.

It was Janey who offered rude explanation. "Mr. John has discovered that I am to be the heiress," she said. "So, he transfers his affection."

Those were hard days for faithful Margot. She was with Aunt Jane when the old lady passed peacefully away.

The will was read later by an unexpectedly called young lawyer from the village. "She wished to draw a later will," the new young man explained, "and recently sent for me."

It was a perplexing document. The big Bruce place, and all it contained was left unreservedly to Janey. A small cottage adjoining was Margot's portion.

"In this cottage," the aunt had written, "were spent the happiest days of my life—my young girlhood. I ask that my niece, Margot, shall make it her home. She will still find some of my treasures in an iron box in a cabinet of the little room that was my own. Lawyer Needers will give her the key. I have no doubt that Janey, with her charm, will soon be married; providing against this fact, however, I have left sufficient funds that she may retain my housekeeper and her husband as caretakers. I hope that Margot may also find happiness in marriage, with some one who will love her for herself alone—Jane Bruce."

"Of all the queer letter wills," cried Janey; "you shan't live in that old cottage, Margot. It's a shame that aunt was so unjust—" She paused before the radiant expression of John Letchworth's face. He was looking down at Margot with a loving soul in his honest eyes.

"Margot," he said, "thank goodness that the first will was changed. For it was made altogether in your favor; after drawing it, what was there left for me but to give you up in my heart? Could I be a fortune hunter? But now—if I may have but a chance to make you care—"

Margot's eyes were wet. "A chance—oh, John," she said; the touch of her hands gave him answer.

In the little house that evening the three assembled with the new young lawyer from the village found Aunt Jane's treasure box in its walnut cabinet. The treasures were bonds, carefully labeled—many of them. Margot was a rich woman. And in the bottom of the box was a scrap of paper; written on it in Jane Bruce's old-fashioned script were the words:

"My dear, I had to make sure that John Letchworth would love you for yourself alone; I knew that you loved him."

POPLAR TREES GIRL'S DOWRY

Planted at Child's Birth, They Provide a "Dot" Demanded on Her Marriage.

In the southernmost part of Italy is the province of Calabria. One of the most charming of the customs here in Italy's toe is that relating to a girl's dowry. For, as in most European countries, a Calabrian girl has a slim chance of marriage unless she is the proud possessor of a "dot."

The Calabrians, to avoid such a tragedy as that of bringing up a daughter and not being able to endow her with a sufficient dowry to attract an eligible husband, make provision in her babyhood against such a misfortune. In some parts of Calabria, when a little girl is born, her father plants a row of poplar trees, which are hers. By the time she is seventeen years old the poplars are fine, large trees and ready to be hewn down. Then their wood is sold and the money is set aside for the daughter's dowry.

Calabria also is rich in historic interest. Scilla is one of the seaports. Across the straits of Messina is Sicily. It was here that the mythological monsters, Scylla and Charybdis, were supposed to menace mariners. Even the brave Ulysses was in never-ending fear of Scylla. It has always been filled with romance, and from this mountainous country come thrilling tales of highwaymen and brigands, for it was a favorite haunt for outlaws.

PLUTARCH'S RULES OF DIET

Philosopher Seems to Have Had the Right Idea Concerning the Satisfying of Appetite.

He that is hungry should eat necessary food and find it pleasant; but when he is freed from his common appetite, he ought not to raise up a fresh one. For as dancing was no unpleasant exercise to Socrates himself, so he that can make his meal of sweatmeats or a second course receives the less damage. But he that has taken already what may sufficiently satisfy his nature ought by all means to avoid them. And concerning these things, indecorum and ambition are no less to be avoided than the love of pleasure or gluttony.

Therefore, when any rare or noble dish is before you, you will get more honor by refraining from it than partaking of it. Remember what Simonides said, that he never repented that he had held his tongue, but often that he had spoken; so we shall not repent that we have refused a good dish or drank water instead of Falernian but the contrary. We are not only to commit no violence on nature; but when any of those things are offered to her, even if she has a desire for them, we ought oftentimes to direct the appetite to a more innocent and accustomed diet, that she may be used to it and acquainted with it.—Plutarch.

White Buffalo Robe Prized.

In the old days Indians cherished the white buffalo robe as almost beyond price. In 1832 or 1833 the Mandans, hearing that the Blackfeet at the mouth of the Yellowstone had a white buffalo robe, sent a delegation with eight horses and with trading-goods the 200 miles to procure the robe if possible. The delegation left the horses and the goods and returned afoot with the robe. This was consecrated to the Great Spirit and hung upon a pole, out of touch, as powerful medicine.

It is said that not one in a hundred thousand buffaloes was white. Even at that the color was likely to be a yellowish white and the robe was known by the plainsmen as a "buckskin" robe. The pure white robe scarcely existed.

Millet Studio to Be Museum.

The remarkable building in the main street of the art center Barbizon, where Jean-Francois Millet painted "The Angelus" and other masterpieces, is being restored to its exact condition when used by the master. It will be opened officially to tourists and art pilgrims.

The restoration is almost a work of love by Douhin, the last painter of the Barbizon school, who, after discovering a long-hidden set of camera plates showing almost every corner of Millet's home, bought the lease and commenced to rebuild and replace, covering the expense of his operations by the sale of copies of Millet's best known canvases. When completed, the house will be virtually a Millet museum.

Cool-Headed Little Girl.

The coolest act I ever saw, says Mr. Rex Stuart, a railway engineer, in the American Magazine, was some months ago on the run between New York and Albany. We were a little late and were traveling fast when I saw two little girls on the track straight ahead. A freight was coming north on the opposite track. One of the girls saw the danger and jumped clear. The other was caught.

There is only six feet between the rails of the two tracks, and she was trapped in there. She turned sidewise, then put her hands straight down at her sides, shut her eyes and stood perfectly still. I looked back after we hit the curve, and she was still standing there as stiff as a poker, waiting for the trains to pass. Of course, it would have been better if she had dropped flat on the ground, but she scarcely had time to do that. It was a very cool-headed deed as it was.

U. S. WILL SEIZE BRITISH LIQUOR

ON BOARD OLYMPIC DESPITE ENGLISH CUSTOM SEAL

MAY BE A TEST CASE

Liner Has Wine Stock To Be Used On Trip Back But Will Be Siezed

Washington, June 21—Regulations were drafted at the Treasury Department this afternoon ordering customs officials to sieze all liquor on incoming vessels other than that carried for medicinal purposes.

The order was drafted at a conference between Secretary of Treasury Mellen, prohibition officials and representatives of the State Department, who had met to determine what action would be taken in regard to the sealed liquor which the steamer, Olympic is bringing to the United States from England next week.

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Moss, charged with prohibition matters, announced flatly that the liquor would be siezed despite the British custom seal.

This White Star liner left Southompton with a stock of wines under four seals of the British customs service with the intention of not opening it until its return trip to England if it is not siezed by United States officials at New York. It is regarded by officials here as being a bold attempt for a test case in the American courts to get a definite understanding in the American courts on the ship liquor question.

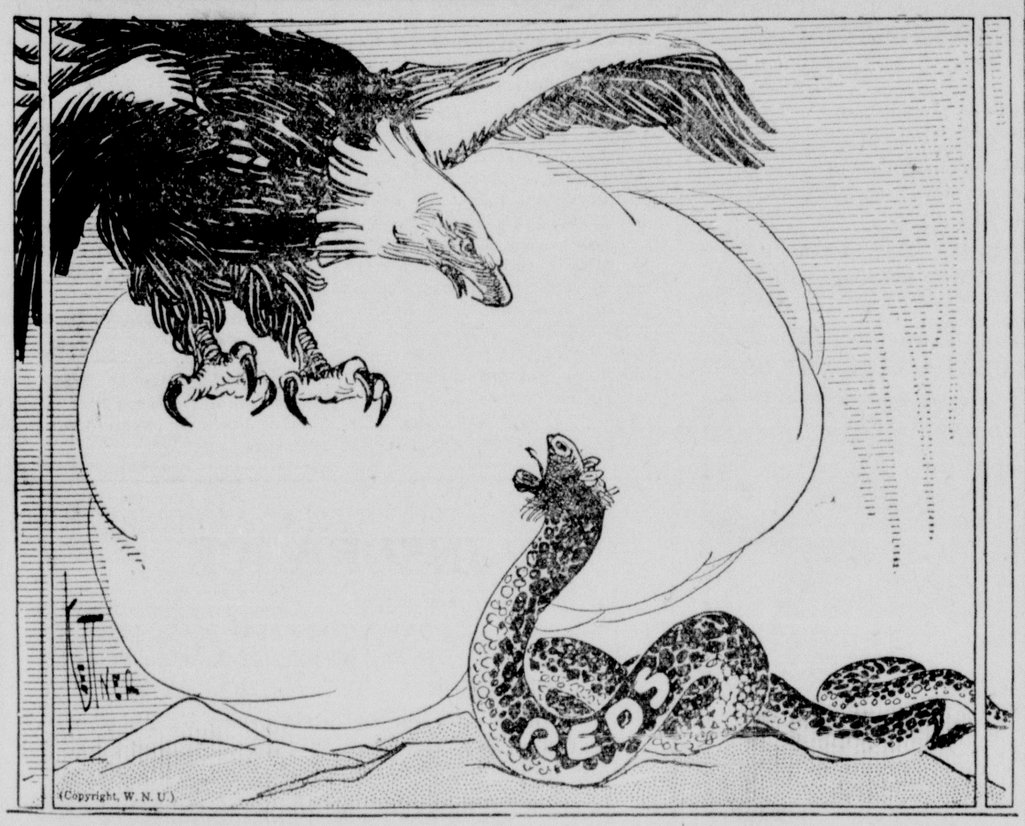
One Bird They Can't Charm



President Harding in Kansas City Friday

That City Is "All Set" for the President—Will Arrive at 10 o'Clock a. m.

Kansas City, June 21.—Kansas City is "all set" for President Harding.

Civic organizations, city officials and hundreds of volunteers, busy for days in preparing for the presidential visit have practically completed their work, and the city is on qui vive for Mr. Harding's arrival.

The president will arrive from St. Louis Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and will be greeted at the train by the mayor's committee and a delegation of leading citizens. Thousands are expected to line the streets leading from the Union Station to Muelbach Hotel, where he and Mrs. Harding will occupy the state suite. These quarters have been occupied by many world figures, and the president and first lady of the land were given it on their last visit to Kansas City.

When the President and his party enter Convention hall Friday night, a sea of waving flags, which no artist could reproduce on canvas and which no writer could portray in words, will greet him. The audience, when the president first steps into the hall, will be a mass of black and white. The only color visible will be the flags decorating the hall, and what color there is in the wearing apparel of the audience.

As the president enters, the band will play a patriotic air. Immediately the arena and balconies of the hall will change from an immobile colorless mass of humanity to a waving, fluttering sea of the national colors.

Five boxes on the right of the platform will be reserved for Governor Hyde and his staff. The boxes will be draped in black and gold, colors of the University of Missouri. Opposite Governor Hyde and his staff, in five boxes on the left of the platform, will be Governor Davis and his staff. Their boxes will be decorated in crimson and blue, colors of the University of Kansas.

Placed obscurely in the passageway beneath the balcony, back of the platform are several pieces of intricate mechanism which will be used in transmitting the president's voice over amplifiers.

A cluster of fourteen amplifiers has been placed directly above the spot where the president will speak. Others will be arranged outside the hall where the overflow crowd will have an opportunity to hear the president.

Towns and cities in surrounding states will hear the president simultaneously with his Kansas City audience, arrangements having been made to broadcast his address by radio.

Views of the News

By Garland N. White
(In Bethany Clipper).

The person who is gossiped about is often better than the person who does the gossiping.

The Maryville Democrat-Forum recently carried this startling headline in its columns: "Ravenwood Children Have Nice Calves."

Col. Dan Morgan Smith, commander of the "Battalion of Death" overseas during the World War, recently said that the action of Gov. Al Smith of New York, in signing the bill to repeal the prohibition enforcement act in that state, would make the New York executive a political "has been." But just think of the great amount of publicity Al got by making that move!

Somebody always has to pay for every reform that takes place. After the alleged whipping to death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth in a convict camp in Florida, the legislature in that southern state enacted three radical reform measures as follows: 1 Abolish the convict lease system in Florida; 2 abolish corporal punishment in Florida prisons; and 3, passed laws to better conditions in state penal institutions, and for rigid inspection of convicts. So death of one unfortunate boy has started a campaign of reform that will undoubtedly result in bettering the conditions in penal institutions in at least a dozen states.

Sacrifices play an important part in the making of history. All of us have to make sacrifices at one time or another. And the person with the strongest personality in your town is usually the one who has made the most sacrifices.

We noticed an interesting cartoon the other day. It was entitled, "Everything Coming Their Way," and showed a lot of missles being hurled at "New York," "Al Smith," and the "Anti-Prohibition Bill." We suppose the only thing that has not been coming their way is the approval of the "drys."

"A Wet Vote in Wisconsin"—Headline. Only one?

Truman H. Newberry of Michigan has characterized the Ford presidential boom as "publicity stuff to keep Ford's name before the public." Perhaps Mr. Newberry will recall that he (Newberry) received his share of publicity for three or four years, while he was United States senator from Michigan.

Are there any King Tut Girls or Lady Bug Girls in Bethany? A Kansas City dispatch says that they have taken the place of Flappers at Electric Park there!

The following appeared in the Lone Valley items in an exchange: "The club will not meet this week, it being Mrs. Pierson's time next, and she's all tore up painting and plastering."

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

THE AUTO AND THE RAILROAD.

A few days ago, Henry Ford's automobile business was twenty years old. In this short space of time he rose from a poor inventor begging the business men of Detroit to stake him for enough to build a car to the wealthiest financier on the face of the earth with net holdings worth $750,000,000.

This fact calls to mind some other things. This twenty years just passed is practically the life of the automobile. Twenty years ago the auto was a mere "devil machine" and the gasoline engine was hardly considered practical. Now there is more money invested in the automobile business than in the railroads of the country, unreasonable as it may seem. The railroad represents a development of ninety years.

Elisha Lee of the Pennsylvania railroad admits that there is more money invested in the manufacturing plants, selling establishments, fuel, storage, service and repair stations associated with the automobile business and that they employ more men than the railroads of the country. Two million six hundred and fifty-nine thousand automobiles were made and sold last year, $1,500,000,000 are invested in automobile plants, purchases of material in 1922 exceeded $1,250,000,000; there are 250,000 employes directly connected with the manufacturing plants who drew $400,000,000 in wages; while dealers, garages, filling stations, etc., give employment to probably 200,000 more.

The wholesale value of cars, trucks, parts, tires and accessories last year was more than $2,500,000,000 and it is estimated that five billion gallons of gasoline was used. This wonderful development in so short a time is due to the production of something the people want and to generous advertising. Sixty million dollars was spent last year in advertising. The automobile has done more than any other agency ever did to bring about road improvement and through direct taxation has borne a large part of the cost of improvement.

This should give the railroads something to think about. The auto has had no Government control or protection. It has not asked for higher rates nor invoked the Government to sustain them. Automobile traffic already exceeds the carrying capacity of our highways and promises to continue to keep pace with them notwithstanding the enormous program of road building going on all over the country. The railroads are being operated largely by their lawyers and the Government clerks. They got rates so high that it doesn't pay to ship farm products and some other means of transportation must be provided. They cut advertising appropriations, secured increased rates and the Government is now trying to help them squeez out all competition by combining them into a dozen or so systems. The future of these two great systems of transportation may be watched with interest from this time forward.

"Everything comes to those who wait" we often quote. From the number of old maids around town we know this old saying is not true.

It is strange but any person can convince us without any argument that we are right but it is different if they try to show us we are wrong.

Our idea of a good joke would be for a telephone operator to call up a friend and have central give her the wrong number.

Have you ever noticed that frequently some fellow goes ahead and does what you have been intending to do?

Uncle Abner says when you find a man who thinks money will do about everything you generally find a fellow who will do about anything for money.

Louise, the stenographer, says her idea of an optimist is the person who gets a lot of pleasure out of planning what he could do if he had the money to do what he wanted to do.

Just because a man is forward looking does not prevent him from being backward when it comes to paying his bills.

The observer of the passerby said to us the other day as we stood at the corner of the street watching the passing show that the long flowing skirts which the girls are wearing now are not half so interesting as the beautiful silk stockings he saw last Summer.

There is not a man inMaryville who can't do what he wants to do if he goes at it hard enough.

Friends at barber shops tell us that with the coming of Summer the sales of wigs has fallen off.

Most all of us can remember when the accepted idea of a honey moon was a trip to Niagara Falls.

Golf Pointers

What about pivoting the body during the driving swing?

Answered by

WILLIE HUNTER

Member and captain British international golf team for several years; the man who introduced golf into British East and South Africa, and New South Wales. Teacher of Willie Hunter, British amateur champion.

The body pivot is largely a matter of the free motion of the hips. It is absolutely necessary because it makes for a free swing. I allows the weight, as well as the strength, of the body to play a part in driving the ball. When there is no pivot, the body is stiff and rigid and the powers of the stroke is lessened. This rigidity destroys the timing of the stroke and prevents the ball from being hit at the instant when there is the maximum velocity and momentum in the club head.

Texas Man Boosts County Farm Agent

(St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal)

Charles Slaughter, of Amarillo, Tex. a reporter for the government on range and crop conditions in the Amarillo district, was at the stock yards Tuesday enroute from his former home, Skidmore, Mo., to Texas. Mr. Slaughter brought the body of his father, T. B. Slaughter, back to the former home for burial. T. B. Slaughter, an old resident of Nodaway county, died June 1 at Amarillo. He had been, of recent years, in the cattle business in Texas.

Mr. Slaughter said that he had taken particular note of the wheat in Nodaway county and had found much of it infested with Hessian fly. Incidentally, Mr. Slaughter paid high respects to the county farm agents. If their advice and counsel were heeded more closely farming would prove more profitable Mr. Slaughter believes.

"For instance, the county farm agents in northwest Missouri, I am informed, last fall laid particular stress on late sowing of wheat to minimize the danger of fly," said Mr. Slaughter. "Those who followed the agents warning, planting as late as possible, have far better wheat than those who paid no attention to the warning. Thru the county agents a lot of valuable information is offered farmers, based on scientific investigations. However many farmers do not follow these perhaps newer and better methods. They are content to go it alone, follow their own ideas and as a result they fail to reap the full benefits and profits from their labors." Mr. Slaughter says that range conditions in the Panhandle country are the best in years. Cattle are doing well, but the spring crop of calves, Mr. Slaughter reports, was only about 60 per cent.

We have often heard it quoted about the "ups and downs" of life. What is meant probably is that energy involved in keeping the expenses down and the appearances up?

Adams Starts Drive Against World Court

Republican National Chairman To Make Swing Around the Circle

(Special Correspondence)

Washington, June 20—Lively interest attaches to the swing around the circle upon which Chairman John T. Adams of the Republican National Committee has departed from Washington just as President Harding is about to start his tour of the country as the opening of his campaign for renomination and re-election. It has been stated by various Washington correspondents that Chairman Adams has begun a drive against the President's proposal for American partnership in the International Court and is about to enlist the whole Republican organization in the battle against Mr. Harding.

Chairman Aadms is to confer with Republican National Committeemen and other Republican leaders in different parts of the country, presumably to acquaint them with the opposition of the officials of the Republican headquarters in Washington and of the "irreconcilables" in the Senate, and to urge them to join this alliance against the President and his outstanding foreign policy. Already Chairman Adams has held a confab with the Republican National Committeeman and other Republicans of Massachusetts. It is significant that this first conference was with the head of the Republican organization in the State of Senator Lodge and Secretary of War Weeks, both of whom are outspokenly hostile to Mr. Harding's proposal.

Mr. Adams appears to have adopted this plan of a personal visit and appeal to the leaders of the Republican organization after having had a long consultation with Frank A. Munsey, publisher of the New York Herald, which is one of the most relentless and ruthless opponents of the International Court. Next day after. Mr. Adam's session with Mr. Munsey it was announced that the Chairman intended making a circuit of the Republican organization to discuss affairs and plans of the party.

One of the conferences already scheduled is that at Louisville, where Chairman Adams is to meet the National Committeemen of Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia. Chairman Adams will travel to the Pacific Coast to consult his associates on the Committee. He will cover practically the same route that President Harding is to traverse on his journey westward.

It is believed that if Chairman Adams can not persuade a majority of the National Committeemen to join the attack on President Harding's program for international cooperation and insure its rejection by the Senate, he will resign. Information coming from Republican sources is that President Hardings and Chairman Adams have parted Company and will not again confer officially on matters affecting the Republican party.

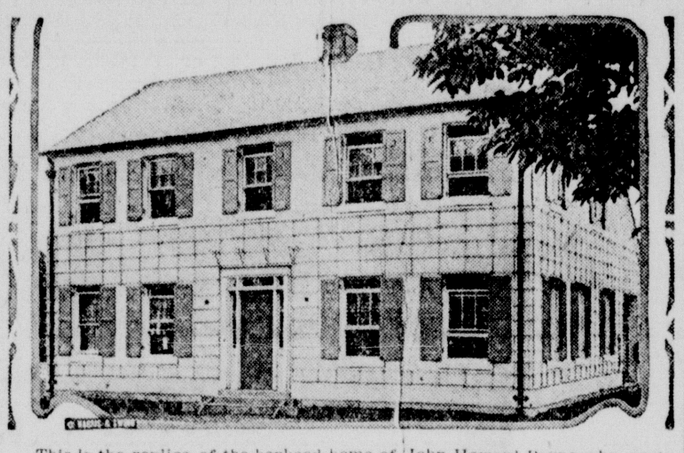
DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

Washington Honors Payne's Memory



This is the replica of the boyhood home of John Howard Payne who wrote the lyric of "Home, Sweet Home." It has been built on the government parkway south of the treasury at Washington and was dedicated June 4 by President Harding, opening the "Better Homes Week." Mme. Homer, famous contralto, sang "Home, Sweet Home" and the speakers included several cabinet officers. Later the home will be moved to a permanent site.

WHERE YOU GET ONLY THE BEST.

Ruth Bryan to Be Here on Chautauqua

Ruth Bryan Owen, the gifted daughter of William Jennings Bryan, has a tale to tell that will hold you spellbound. A world traveler since childhood, this interesting woman has made a special study of life and customs in the far East and her descriptions of the everyday life of the shiek and his wives and unexcelled because of their rich humor, heart interest and absolute truthfulness and accuracy.

Men too, will appreciate hearing the inside story of the great war campaign in the Holy Land—a story which none knows better than Mrs. Owen.

Mrs. Owens has inherited her famous father's rich sense of humor and is a brilliant speaker as well. There is not a dull moment during her talk and it is one of those interesting narratives that will live in your memory for years.

You will hear how they shop in those old towns whose names are mentioned in the Bible; you will laugh at some of her descriptions and again you will want to cry.

But when its over you'll say that you never heard a more interesting, thrilling, entertaining talk in your life.

And this is only ONE feature of our coming Chautauqua program which is simply crammed with such worth while numbers.

Vagrant Musings

It seems that the other fellows business is always more profitable.

The average man goes to a lot of trouble he easily could have kept away from.

It is not only necessary to keep your feet on the ground but to keep them moving as well.

It is a good rule to be sure you are right then keep still.

There is no habit which grows faster than laziness.

We are always being told that the average man is honest. But have you ever noticed that when two men plan to enter some kind of an agreement each one calls in a regiment of lawyers to see that the other one does not get the better of the bargain.
